COMPUTER KNOWLEDGE TO SCHOOL STUDENTS

We then went on asking the people their difficulties and their pressing need. Some of the problems faced by people are water scarcity, contagious disease that often attacks the cattle and uncertainty in their daily work. Since many of the people illiterate and children are first generation learners, they had a little knowledge on computer. To chase away the darkness of computer illiteracy from the student of government school, we spent a half day with the student's teaching them the basics of the computer. It was a great opportunity for us to share with the students our knowledge in computer. We were amazed by the gasping capacity of some of the students who understood the basics of the computer very fast. We felt overjoyed to teach those students. This induced us to do something more and more to them.
